6 Exercise 6: Dragon Ball Z Scene Comprehension

Read this dialogue inspired by Dragon Ball Z and answer the questions below.

Scene: The Namek Saga — Vegeta's Warning

Setting: Planet Namek. Vegeta has temporarily allied with Gohan and Krillin against Frieza's forces.

VEGETA: Don't be such suckers. Frieza's men have been lurking around these villages for days. They're planning an ambush.

KRILLIN: How do you know that?

VEGETA: Because I'm not sluggish like you earthlings. I've been watching. Those ominous energy readings from the north? That's Dodoria waiting to strike.

GOHAN: But we gave them the Dragon Ball! Why would they attack us now?

VEGETA: (laughs) You really aren't acquainted with how Frieza operates, are you? He holds a grudge against anyone who wastes his time. And those prices he demands for mercy? Outrageous. He takes everything and gives nothing.

KRILLIN: So what do we do?

VEGETA: (crosses arms, defiant) We don't run. We divert their attention. Make them think we're heading east while we circle back. I've had ample time to ponder this strategy.

GOHAN: That's actually... shrewd.

VEGETA: Don't act so surprised. Now stop pestering me with questions and move! The mind-boggling power of Frieza's army won't stunt my plans for revenge.

Questions:

1. What word does Vegeta use to describe Gohan and Krillin as easily fooled?

2. What have Frieza's men been doing around the villages?

3. How does Vegeta describe himself compared to the "earthlings"?

4. What word describes Frieza's demands for mercy?

5. What is Vegeta's plan to escape the ambush?

6. Find the word that means Vegeta has thought carefully about the strategy.

7. What adjective describes Vegeta's body language when he says "We don't run"?

8. What does Gohan call Vegeta's plan, meaning it shows good judgement?

12 Exercise 12: Advanced Reading & Analysis

Read the passage and answer the analytical questions.

The Failed Business Deal

Marcus had always considered himself a shrewd investor, but this time he had been suckered into a terrible deal. The investment opportunity had seemed too good to be true—and it was.

The con artists had been lurking in the financial district for months, waiting for wealthy victims. When they approached Marcus, they diverted his attention from the obvious red flags by showing him impressive (but fake) financial reports.

At first, Marcus took ample time to ponder the decision. However, the salespeople began to pester him with daily calls, creating a false sense of urgency. The promised returns were so outrageous—300% profit in just six months—that anyone less greedy would have been suspicious.

When the truth emerged, Marcus felt sluggish and depressed for weeks. The financial loss was mind-boggling—over two million dollars gone. Dark, ominous thoughts clouded his mind.

His wife still held a grudge against the people who had ruined them, while their teenage daughter remained defiant, insisting the family would recover. Marcus wasn't so sure. Though acquainted with failure from his early business days, nothing had prepared him for this.

Analytical Questions:

1. How does the author create irony with the word "shrewd" in the opening sentence?
2. The passage uses "lurking" to describe the con artists. What connotation does this create, and how does it foreshadow the outcome?
3. Identify TWO vocabulary words that describe Marcus's emotional/physical state after the scam. How do they reinforce the theme of loss?
4. Compare the reactions of Marcus, his wife, and his daughter. Which vocabulary words characterize each person's response?
5. The word "outrageous" is used to describe the promised returns. Is this usage positive or negative in context? Explain.
